Dear Mr. Jayaditya Nath:

The Admissions Committee recently met, and you have been accepted as a new Fall 2023 Ph.D. graduate student to the Department of Statistics at the University of Missouri. Congratulations!

In addition, you have been selected to receive a graduate assistantship in our department based on your excellent record and training. The details of the financial assistance are given in a different letter. We strongly believe that you can do well in our Ph.D. program and will have a great future. If you have not yet done so, please have your official transcripts sent to the Graduate School. Pending receipt of your official transcripts and final review and approval by the Graduate School, you will be officially admitted to the University

The need for highly trained statisticians continues to be strong and I am pleased that you have chosen to pursue a graduate degree. Statistics is an interesting, challenging, and lucrative field, and our graduates have been highly successful in finding employment in industry, government, academia, and consulting.

Students and student organizations must adhere to community standards in accordance with the University's mission and expectations. You are subject to the rules, orders, and regulations of the University of Missouri System. Collected rules and regulations for student conduct are available online at https://www.umssystem.edu/ums/rules/collected_rules/programs/ch200

Your status as a graduate student at the University of Missouri is dependent upon your satisfactory performance, professional and ethical behavior, and progress toward degree. All students are subject to Graduate School policies, including probation and dismissal policies, which can be found online at <https://gradschool.missouri.edu/current-students/policies-cs/>. It is also each graduate student's responsibility to know and observe all regulations and procedures relating to the graduate program the student is pursuing.
